Casting into Deeper Waters

By Christine Edmonds

The Way of Peace

“And let the peace of Christ control your hearts, the peace into which you were also called in one body. And be thankful.” (Colossians 3:15)

A NEW YEAR OF OPPORTUNITIES

As we begin this year of 2008, I pray that you will know peace in your hearts and in your life.

Each New Year brings us an opportunity to grow and deepen in our spiritual journey and in our ministry. In this issue of GoFish, you will find articles that invite you to “take the next step” in your own ministerial path, as well as a “building blue print” for youth ministry that can help you evaluate and strengthen the youth ministry efforts of your parish.

BUILDING PEACE THROUGH OUR PARISH FAMILY

Everyone longs for peace, but where can we find it? In his message for the celebration of World Day of Peace (January 1), Pope Benedict XVI cites the family unit as the model for building peace in the world.

From his message:

“I invite every man and woman to have a more lively sense of belonging to the one human family, and to strive to make human coexistence increasingly reflect this conviction, which is essential for the establishment of true and lasting peace.”

To the degree that we can live together in harmony as a human family, we strengthen the way of peace in our world. Developing and nurturing our parish family is one very important way to help teach our children how to live in peace. In a world that is focusing more and more on individualism and isolationism, our parish youth ministry can be the oasis of community that fosters peace in times of chaos.

DEVELOPING RELATIONSHIPS

It probably goes without saying that to create a sense of parish family requires developing relationships with and among young people. Youth ministry is more about relationships than programs. The programs merely provide ways to strengthen the relationships. And it is through healthy Christian relationships that discipleship, and ultimately peace grow. As you reflect on your youth ministry and your own spiritual growth, keep in mind the value of relationship-building, and use it to evaluate your progress.

REJOICE AND BE GLAD

And as you reflect on your peace-building efforts through youth ministry, don't forget to be thankful for the many wonderful gifts that our good Lord has provided in willing volunteers and committed youth who are devote themselves tirelessly to these efforts. For all of your efforts, I do rejoice! Many you recognize many blessings in this New Year!

Diocesan Catholic Youth Conference Awards

Help create a “shiny moment” in the life of an outstanding young person and/or adult you know who has been actively involved in youth ministry this past year. Take the time to nominate someone, so that we may ALL join in acknowledging their gifts!

These three award forms are due to the Youth Office by Feb. 22.

PARISH YOUTH MINISTRY LEADER AWARD

IF YOU BUILD IT, THEY WILL COME

YOUR YOUTH MINISTRY “HOUSE”

What does your youth ministry “house” look like? This is not just a “where” question, but also with whom, how and why. Perhaps you have a house that is quite old and outdated, and is in need of some updating and repairs. Or maybe you have a house that isn’t quite finished because other builders started construction but left without leaving any of the blue-prints. Or it may be the case that you simply ran out of materials (i.e., volunteers and/or money.) As a new year begins, it is good to survey your youth ministry house and evaluate how it is holding up!

DO YOU HAVE A HOUSE OR A TENT?

Many parishes offer a series of unrelated programs for youth, but haven’t taken the next step to create an intentional youth ministry. While it perfectly fine to put up a tent to meet the immediate needs of the parish youth, don’t forget that the tent is a temporary structure. You cannot stay in the tent for very long. People will eventually find other places to call home. If you take the time to build a sturdy youth ministry “house”, it will always be filled with enthusiastic youth.

A RECOMMENDED BLUE-PRINT

The bishops’ document, Renewing the Vision: A Framework for Catholic Youth Ministry offers a nice blue-print for how to build your youth ministry house. This document describes themes and components of a parish ministry and how it works in concert with schools and the larger community. These can all become the building blocks of your plan. Copies of this document are available from the Youth Office.

GOOD THINGS TAKE TIME

Creating a building plan that meets the needs of your particular youth, and establishing the foundation necessary all takes time. And time is a precious commodity in this day and age. We seem to have more time available to us because of modern technology, but the time gets consumed by other pressing needs. Borrowing from Stephen Covey’s time management language, are we spending too much time with the “Urgent But Not Important” items and not enough time with the “Important But Not Urgent” items? Building a systematic, intentional and purposeful youth ministry is not urgent, but it is very important and worth the time taken!

THE BISHOPS’ BLUE PRINT FOR YOUTH MINISTRY

QUOTE FROM THE NATIONAL STUDY OF YOUTH AND RELIGION

“...one of the most important things that adults who are concerned about how teenagers’ religious and spiritual lives are going to turn out can do is to focus attention on strengthening their own and other adults’, especially parents’, religious and spiritual lives.”

YOUTH MINISTRY IDEA: SENIOR CITIZEN VALENTINE MEAL

(This idea was submitted by Diane Coomes from St. Francis Parish in St. Paul, KS)

Material: Turkeys, broth, rolls, salads, desserts, potatoes, green beans, dressing ingredients, coffee, tea, flowers, door prizes, candy, paper for flyers.

Description: We do this around Valentine's Day. We put flyers up around town for the senior citizens and let them know it's FREE. We deliver the food to the elderly who are unable to get out. We give door prizes, fresh flowers and candies to those who attend.

For the food, we have the officers/youth council members each bring a 12-15 pound turkey with broth. Each class is responsible for bringing something. For example: Freshmen – rolls; Sophomores – desserts; Juniors and Seniors – side salads. The CYO buys the ingredients for the dressing, mashed potatoes, green beans, coffee and tea.

This is wonderful for the elderly. They truly love it. The youth serve them, and do the cooking and cleaning with adult supervision.

The statement, developed by the Ad Hoc Committee on Stewardship of the United States Conference of Catholic Bishops, is available in both English and Spanish on the USCCB website <http://www.usccb.org/bishops/StewardshipTeens.pdf>, or through the USCCB Publishing Department.

Soldiers for Christ

“My appeal to you today, young people...is this: do not waste your youth. Do not seek to escape from it. Live it intensely...You, young people, are not just the future of the Church and of humanity, as if we could somehow run away from the present...The Church needs you, as young people, to manifest to the world the face of Jesus Christ, visible in the Christian community. Without this young face, the Church would appear disfigured.”

-Pope Benedict XVI to Youth in Brazil

CAUGHT IN THE NET

He said to them, "Cast your net over the right side of the boat, and you will find something."

John 21:6

I pray that your Christmas was blessed with joy and that your new year is off to a good start. With the holidays behind us we look ahead and see that it is only a month until Lent begins. With Ash Wednesday coming on February 6, some of you might be looking for Lenten resources.

A good starting point when looking for any youth ministry resources is the National Federation for Catholic Youth Ministry web-site. The NFCYM participates in the mission of the Catholic Church by advocating for and supporting Catholic youth ministry on the national, diocesan, and local level. One of the ways they do this is through the conferences they host, NCYC for youth and the NFCYM for adults. Another way is through the many resources available on their web-site.

Web-site of the Month: <http://www.nfcym.org/resources/components/prayerworship/lent.htm>

This is a sub-section of the National Federation for Catholic Youth Ministry web-site. They have links to several web-sites with an abundance of Lenten resources. There is an on-line retreat from Good Ground Press and Creighton University's Praying Lent which offers daily Lenten reflections. The Center for Ministry Development link will take you to a 23 page PDF of resources from CMD.

Be sure to check out the Understanding Lent site of St. Anthony Messenger for an explanation of Mardi Gras and an FAQ about Lent. They also offer 3 different Stations of the Cross including The Way of the Cross—on Your Block which your youth group can say/create as you walk around your parish neighborhood.

Perhaps the gem of the whole page is Blessed Are the Peacemakers - A Lenten Session Encouraging Young People to Fast from Violence created by the NFCYM. This is a ready made two-hour session that "will lead young people to reflect on the many types of violence that exist in the world and in their lives today, culminating in a prayer experience inviting them to commit to fasting from violence during the season of Lent. A series of six weekly follow-up prayer and journal reflections is included as a resource that can be e-mailed to those who commit to the fast. Each reflection highlights one of the six types of violence that is reviewed within the session itself."

Until next time, "keep on casting your net to the right side of the boat."

TEC and Clay Retreats

TEC - Have You Tried It?

Teens Encounter Christ, twenty-four years in our diocese and still not just for teens. What is it about TEC that has kept it going strong for all these years in our diocese and over 40 years nationwide? What is it about TEC that keeps people like Claudia Green, Bill Gress and Fr. Andy Kuykendall, who all served on TEC #1, coming back to serve over and over again? The same thing that has kept our Catholic faith going strong for over 2,000 years, it's centered on Christ's Paschal Mystery.

The strength of TEC in our diocese is due in large part to the strength of it's adults. The strength of those adults comes from having the opportunity to witness the effect that a real encounter with Christ can have on a youth.

As I said at the beginning, TEC is not just for teens (high school juniors and seniors), it's also for adults who work with youth. If you go on a TEC weekend will you be obligated or expected to serve on a future TEC? No, but that door will be open to you, adults just like the youth have to be a candidate on a TEC before they can serve on one. Some adults come on a TEC weekend just to find out what it is like, so that they can better promote it to the youth in their parish.

If you would like to know more about TEC, call David at 316-269-3928, he would be glad to talk to you about it. On the other hand, you could just go ahead and take the plunge, send in your application and be prepared to have a closer encounter with Christ. Applications are available on our web-site www.cdowk.org/yyam/TEC.html.

In 2008 we will have TEC retreats in Wichita on Feb. 23-25, June 7-9 and Dec. 13-15.
There will be a TEC retreat in Pittsburg on June 28-30.

Please encourage your juniors and seniors to attend a TEC retreat. Also, remind those who have already attended TEC to apply to serve on an upcoming weekend.
