

2018 SEASONED SERVANT SYMPOSIUM

St Benedict and St Therese: The Wisdom of Age and Innocence March 16 & 17, 2018 at the Spiritual Life Center

Please join us for the 2nd Annual Seasoned Servant Symposium featuring prominent Catholic author, speaker, and priest Father Dwight Longenecker. The presentations will delight both the young and old alike. Gain some insight on how our youth in their innocence and the elderly with their wisdom can feed one another in our culture today. Come Friday night for a presentation, wine, beer, and cheese social with Father Longenecker. Hear his conversion story and how he went from being an Anglican priest to a Catholic priest.

Noon Lunch

1:00 p.m. Talk IV "Living with Age and Innocence" with Father Dwight Longenecker

Father Longenecker always wanted to be a writer but it was only when he left the Anglican Church to become Catholic that he suddenly had something to write about. He has now published about twenty books on Catholic culture, the saints, and apologetics. His latest book is "The Mystery of the Magi-the Quest for the True Identity of the Three Wise Men". Currently he is working on a book about angels.

Father Longenecker is always pleased to get out and meet the Catholics who keep our church going –the ordinary folks in the pews. He often tells his conversion story –how he went from being a student at Bob Jones University to being a Catholic priest. He likes to speak on the threats to a positive, joyful Catholicism in the world today, Benedictine spirituality, and the Hero's quest of faith.

He was ordained in 2006. He moved his family from England to Greenville, South Carolina and accepted a post as chaplain to St. Joseph's Catholic School. He is now pastor of Our Lady of the Rosary parish in Greenville.

Cost for this symposium is $75 for commuters, $115 for a single room, and $105 for a double.
